

Unjust Enrichment: Does it Exist and if So, What is it, Where is it Going and Can We Humanely Dispose of it?

by

Prof. Steven Gallagher,
Professor of Practice in Law,
Associate Dean
(Academic & Student Affairs),
The Faculty of Law,
The Chinese University of Hong Kong

Steven Gallagher was awarded a first class LL.B. He was called to the Bar of England and Wales in 2006. Steven teaches equity and trusts, property law, and art, antiquities, cultural heritage and the law. Steven has presented continuing professional development courses for solicitors in Hong Kong on many topics associated with property law. Steven's research interests include equity and the law of trusts, Chinese custom and law, cultural heritage law, and law and technology.

This three-hour seminar will consider what has been hailed as the newest form of standalone action at common law - unjust enrichment.

The seminar will consider the history of the development of unjust enrichment, the only form of action at common law created by academics rather than judges, and its development.

The seminar will consider unjust enrichment's part in the search for a unified common law of restitution.

The seminar will then consider the development of unjust enrichment and its defence, the change of position, in Hong Kong and England.

The seminar will consider the links between unjust enrichment and equity and the possible development of the action to deal with more than just money claims.

In conclusion we will consider whether unjust enrichment does exist or whether it is just another name for money had and received, and whether we can humanely dispose of the last vestige of the "cult of restitution."
